

INTRODUCTIONS

01 Get in the Groove

Palomar Medical Technologies introduces the Lux 2940 Groove Optic handpiece for use with the StarLux 500. The single-treatment fractional laser handpiece creates a unique grooved injury pattern on the skin that increases ablative tissue coverage while preserving the low downtime benefits of traditional fractional treatments. Unlike traditional fractional devices that remove vertical columns of tissue, the 2940nm Lux2940 Groove Optic ablates lines of tissue creating a uniform, high coverage and visible pattern that effectively disrupts the structural memory of wrinkles and promotes younger looking skin. "Single treatments with the Groove Optic resulted in consistent and substantial reductions in wrinkles and dyschromia with excellent overall enhancement in the appearance of the skin without increased side effects and downtime. This strategy improves the ratio of clinical benefits to side effects and downtime," said E. Victor Ross, MD. Contact: 800.725.6627, www.palomarmedical.com.

The serum hydrates skin with bio-fermented hyaluronic acid, oat beta-glucan, squalane and marine polysaccharide-derived omega-3 and omega-6 fatty acids. Recommended for twice daily use. 03 Two Actions, One Product

DERM AOX Anti-Glycation + Anti-Oxidation Serum from La Roche-Posay combines three active ingredients to combat glycation and oxidation. Carnosone, a molecule discovered through diabetes research, acts like a magnet, attracting sugar molecules to inhibit the glycation process. Antioxidant Pycogenol, a maritime pine extract, reduces oxidative stress and neutralizes free radicals. Vitamin C, a powerful antioxidant, helps restore skin structure, reduce wrinkles and increase skin radiance. The lightweight, hydrating serum is paraben-free and noncomedogenic.
